By All Means Let's Have a Moral Revival

There are signs, scattered through the news, that the United States is about to have a moral revival.

It's long overdue. A good case could be made for the theory that the one great failure of the world in the past 20 years is a moral failure. That failure is all too evident in faith-breaking nations, and in cynical governments, national, state, and local, as well as in personal relations.

It is questionable whether all the staggering losses of the World War in men, in material, and in money total up to the loss in moral force which has never been restored.

The tragic of moral revivals of this kind is that they so often spend themselves on non-essentials, and, interpreting morality in the narrowest terms of strictly personal conduct, produce tempest of sound and fury amid which the great social abuses go unscathed.

The Governor Dickinson type of person is capable of rousing a storm of indignation over the sight of a cocktail, but of remaining unmoved in the sight of that most monstrous of immoralities, war. There is a type of person who can rant about the immoralities of dancing or card playing, and remain mute in the face of the most grossly immoral civic corruption. There is a type which is scandalized by a brief bathing suit, but is silent in the face of the moral degradation of those who try to rouse racial prejudices and class hatreds. And the result is women sent to prison for life for possessing a pint of whisky, and perfectly respectable citizens hauled off to the local calaboose for trimming a hedge on Sunday afternoon.

In short, many well-intentioned moralists train their heaviest guns on the mice of the moral jungles, and let the elephants run rampant.

To demand decent, peaceable, friendly relations among nations; to demand honest, effective government at home; to demand honesty and fair treatment in business, labor, and industrial relations; there is a field ample in scope to absorb the energies of all moral revivalists. It is a field more true to the real intent of the word morals than a reversion to some new witch-hunt against cocktail drinking, cigaret smoking, and petting in the park.

Cleveland plumbers found a diamond ring, returned it to the owner. We'll hold up opinion on their honesty until we find out what the bill was.

President Roosevelt left Washington temporarily to attend a clam bake. He no doubt reasoned that a clam's shell is easier to break than that of a congressman.

An inventor sues his wife for divorce on grounds of cruelty. He modestly admits that his inventions are nothing compared to her inventions for plaguing him.

Lens of the eye continue to grow throughout life, science says. Kids, there's a stopper for Dad when he tells you "your eyes are bigger than your stomach."

A Kansas City fellow started out to get his lawnmower fixed and found it needed five different repair jobs. Result? You guessed it. The mower broke again and he ended up by borrowing the neighbor's, after all.

Two-Way Spiral

There has been so much talk of the "vicious spiral" of descending business conditions, that we forget that all such spirals can work both ways. It is true that when one business falls off, discharges workers or reduces pay, this cuts purchasing power, and in a widening circle its effects are felt on other business, tending to drag them all downward. That is the spiral. But it is a two-way spiral. When one business picks up, hires more men, increases pay, this money is spent on other businesses, which tend to pick up in turn. The spiral has been reversed.

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., of General Motors in his quarterly report notes that "there are equally effective and powerful forces which, once set in motion and given freedom to act, will build an ascending spiral leading to new levels of prosperity and progress."

It seems possible, with business already better than expected, with Congress adjourning, and with a somewhat quieter international situation, that such an upward spiral is beginning to uncoil. Surely that is a time for everyone who can do so to release purchasing, expansion, employment, investment, or any other means of speeding up the spiral.

Canada to the Fore

Once again the increasing importance of Canada in the scheme of the British Empire is brought out. Great Britain is about to establish large wheat reserves in that country.

Having filled all available storage space on the "tight little island," Halifax and St. John will be utilized to pile up even greater reserves.

This not only helps to alleviate Canada's surplus wheat situation, which is like that of the United States, but it further secures Britain against war-time emergency. The ports chosen are those closest to Britain itself, making the grain quickly available at any time so long as command of the sea is not lost.

It has been speculated for some time that Canada was destined to play a more important role in Empire affairs than heretofore. Certain airplane production and other munitions work has already been brought to Canada, and more will follow.

The United States is happy to see these moves, which strengthen the New World and lengthen the shadow of the Western Hemisphere in world affairs.

So They Say

In this jittering age when nerves are frazzled, thousands of people are trying to find an escape in drinking—Rev. C. Everett Wagner of New York's Union Methodist Church.

If children had a chance to carry their philosophy into the world it would smash most of our institutions. Give their lasting idealism a chance to survive and we will have a better world.—Rev. Dr. Karl Reilend, St. George's Episcopal Church, New York.

For what shall it profit America if in aiding the shedding of blood she shall have a hundred billion national income but lose her own soul?—Rev. Dr. Jacob S. Payton, editor, National Methodist press.

Wealth is not an evil in itself . . . but it may become an evil thing if it was acquired by evil means, or if its possession changes the character of a man.—Rev. Robert E. Woods, at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York.

We view with alarm the rapid spread in our country of the hysterical cry that the alien or the Jew or the Catholic or some other scapegoat is responsible for all the ills of society.—American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom.

Looking Backward

Forty Years Ago

Col. H. C. Demuth and family are spending the week at Stoneyridge, guests of Hon. J. H. Bothwell.

It is expected that the foundation for the new M. E. church, South, will be finished this week, and work on erecting the edifice will go forward as rapidly as possible.

Tony Condioto, who purchased the Mercutio stock is moving it to No. 122 Ohio, and the firm at the new location will be known as the Sedalia Fruit Commission company.

James D. Mark, manager for the Armour Packing company at this point, has been promoted and will leave Wednesday for Kansas City where he will have a position in the company's office there.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Jim Farley was not finessing when he told reporters just before sailing that he had not discussed his third term views with anyone, "including the President." That was an absolute statement of fact.

Many, including Vice President Garner, have tried to find out how Jim stands on the issue, but no one has yet succeeded. Roosevelt is in the dark for another reason. He has never asked Jim.

Many political matters were discussed at their Hyde Park conference—among them Gardner's campaign, Senator Burt Wheeler's sudden reversal and declaration against a third term, McNutt's appointment to the Federal Security Agency, the Hatch "purity in politics" bill, Democratic Committee finances, which are in a very low state, and briefly, Roosevelt's 1940 thoughts.

But nothing was said about either Jim's attitude toward a third term or his own presidential ambitions. He didn't touch on these matters and the President didn't ask him about them.

The nearest Jim came to the matter was his indignant disclaimer of the truth of the Washington news reports the morning before that he had told three anti-New Deal Senators that he was against a third term and was prepared to break with Roosevelt if he ran again. Jim credited the stories to "Garner sources" and expressed the opinion that they were "planted" for the purpose of creating bad feeling between him and the President.

Note—Mentioned as one of the three Senators in some of the stories, Wheeler, who had nothing to do with them, came near issuing a statement asserting his innocence.

No Old Guarder
Roosevelt's 1940 thoughts were not new to Farley.

The President repeated what he has said several times before to Jim: (1) that he does not want to run, (2) that he is determined that the Democratic standard bearer shall be a liberal.

Roosevelt is dead set against Garner, Senator Bennett Clark, Wheeler and the lesser anti-Administration hopefuls. They will be nominated only over his prostrate body and he will go fishing if they lick him.

"If the Democratic party is to be turned out of office," he declared, "it will be by the American people and not by a reactionary Democrat."

The President's secret personal choice for a successor is Solicitor General Robert Jackson.

But there is small chance of the brilliant young New Yorker being named. His prospects were torpedoed when Farley first in 1937 scuttled a Jackson gubernatorial boom and again in December, 1938, blocked his appointment as Attorney General. If some way is found to elevate Jackson to the cabinet in the next few months his candidacy may be revived, but right now it is a dead duck.

Pals Again

The chief result of the Hyde Park talk was to restore the old footing of intimate relationship between Roosevelt and Farley.

A certain amount of coolness had developed between them which their pow-wow cleared up. For how long remains to be seen. They agreed to resume their discussions after Jim returns from Europe and the President also suggested that Jim accompany him when he makes his trip to the West Coast late in September.

Harry Hopkins is already slated to go along and he is very strong for a complete reappraisal with Jim. Unlike other inner circles, Hopkins is against warring with Jim and wants him brought back into the fold.

Dictator Dominiciano

Washington got a taste of the temper of a dictator recently when General Trujillo of the Dominican Republic attended a dinner given in his honor by U. S. Chief of Staff Marshall. Trujillo had ordered his aides to report

"You'll have to give me a little more time on this book on child behavior—I don't seem to be able to concentrate."

at the Legation at 7:45, fifteen minutes before the dinner. But when two of them appeared at 7:55 he ordered them barred.

General Marshall was informed that the two officers were "unable to come" and the places were hurriedly removed from the table.

"When we return to Santo Domingo," cried Trujillo, "I shall have them court-martialed!"

Note—the death of Naval Secretary Swanson was a life-saver to the Dominicans. They were planning a reception in honor of Trujillo and had invited 2,000 people. Only 400 accepted, a mere dribble when it comes to filling the Pan American Union ball room. So the Swanson death was used as an excuse to call off the party.

GOP Laborite

One of the staunchest congressional defenders of the Wagner Labor Relations and Wage-Hour acts is a Republican—white-haired, plain-talking Representative Richard J. Welch of San Francisco.

Off and on the floor, in two-fisted language, he not only warns his GOP colleagues that they are breeding grave labor trouble by trying to scuttle the two laws but he also goes after anti-New Deal Democrats hammer and tongs on the subject. At a recent closed-door session of the House Labor Committee on the Barden bill, which would deprive nearly 2,000,000 of the lowest paid workers of protection from the Wage-Hour act, Welch bluntly charged Chamber of Commerce inspiration behind the Barden measure.

Representative Graham A. Barden, North Carolina sponsor of the bill, was solemnly lecturing the committee on the "disastrous" effect of increased wages and shorter hours on southern industry when Welch interrupted.

"I want to get one thing straight," he said. "Several months ago the U. S. Chamber of Commerce passed a resolution calling for the repeal of the Wage-Hour law. This bill of yours would have the same effect as outright repeal. I'd like to know if the Chamber of Commerce had a hand in it."

Bristling with indignation, Barden shouted back, "The gentleman has no right to make such an insinuation. No outside interests had anything to do with my bill."

"Well, you needn't be so thin-skinned about it," retorted Welch. "There certainly is no question that your bill would destroy the act just as the Chamber of Commerce wants it destroyed. So I thought that perhaps they had ghost-written it for you."

Note—Barden also ran into a southern buzz-saw when he tried to get Representative Bob Ramspeck of Georgia, another member of the committee, to support him. "I'll have nothing to do with your bill," Ramspeck snapped. "It's reactionary and destructive and I'll do everything in my power to defeat it."

Man Bites Dog

When the Republican party sings Rooseveltian praise it's almost like a man biting a dog. Yet the GOP did this twice in the same breath recently and few noticed it.

The "Young Republican," official publication of the Young Republican Clubs, enthusiastically acclaim the appointment of Archibald MacLeish as new head of the Library of Congress and with almost equal fervor lauds the work of the Anti-Monopoly Committee. Both are special pets of the President.

"Just to show that we, like Hamlet, are not so crazy that we cannot tell a hawk from a sand-saw," says the Young Republican, "we take this opportunity to applaud President Roosevelt for the appointment of Archibald MacLeish. We don't know Mr. MacLeish's politics, and we strongly suspect that they are not Republican. But he is a scholar, a gentleman, and a successful business man. We commend the President for his nice discrimination."

Next to the last sentence is practically what Roosevelt said in announcing MacLeish's appointment.

Regarding the Anti-Monopoly Committee, Young Republican says: "We commend the TNEC to our readers and suggest respectful attention to its findings. Headed by Senator O'Mahoney, this committee has been doing some quiet and very fruitful work in examining the state of the nation."

Senator O'Mahoney is a Wyoming Democrat. Prime movers of the committee are New Deal brain-trusters.

Note—Mr. MacLeish may be an excellent appointment, but so far he is not taking his duties too seriously. While Congress, the Cabinet, and Library workers sweat in the heat of Washington, the new head of the Congressional Library takes life easy in New England.

SERIAL STORY

GHOST DETOUR

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday: The girls are worried about Dick's strange movements in the old mine shaft. The money. They are worried too about the romantic complications developing. Frankie buys a purse for Christine, she discovers it, he says it is from Dick. Christine wants to cry, realizing Frankie really bought it for her.

CHAPTER XII

FRANKLIN LARRAWAY just sat there gazing at Christine Palmer as she walked away from his car. "God!" he muttered to himself. "I sure can miff everybody!"

He hadn't meant for her to see the purse. She hadn't discovered the silver ring because it was in a smaller package. He picked that up and put it in his pocket and stuck the purse back in its wrapper. He doubted if he could handle Dick diplomatically enough to make him give Christine the purse. He had bought the purse to give Christine himself. But then—well, she had practically admitted being in love with Dick, earlier. And he was Dick's best friend, trusted friend. A man doesn't let his friend down. If Christine loved Dick, and he himself loved Dick as a friend—well then—aw to the devil with it all. Franklin swallowed, and all at once remembered what he had learned about Carl Quait, the robber-murderer. Impulsively he called to Christine again.

"Hey! Hey, Christy! Wait! . . . Come here a minute!"

She stopped and looked back. She bit her pretty lips to keep them from trembling, she who had been about to cry.

"Come here, please. Look—I got news to tell you Christy!" His voice had dropped to a confidential murmur. "News about that money in the vault. In the old mine shaft, I mean."

It wasn't in the mine shaft any more, Christine told herself. But no matter now—what did Franklin have? She came close to his car.

"Get in and sit a minute, Christine. Listen—that money was put here by a pay roll bandit named Quait. He was sent to prison, but escaped and murdered a man. He's at liberty now!"

"Franklin!"

"No fooling! I went to the sheriff's office and—"

HE told her all about it. Told her with almost a happy, boyish enthusiasm. Of course Christine found his excitement contagious. She welcomed it, too, because it enabled her to control the other emotions that had stirred her, and so hold back her tears. Franklin had not noticed her crying, though. "Whatever will we do?" she demanded now. "He hasn't shown up yet, but we know he's a dangerous outlaw, free and likely to come any time."

"He's probably been just lying low. People forget about a crook after a while and even the officers get careless if they don't catch him. But Christine, he'll learn about Goldcrest being reopened. The papers have carried it these past few days—I brought a San Francisco paper with your photo and Roselee's and the ghost town's in it. He'll come any night for the money. I'm surprised he hasn't come already. When he does—we must trap him! That $2000 is a juicy reward!"

They agreed not to tell Roselee lest it unnecessarily disturb her. Christine hinted—without explanation—that Roselee was already distracted about business and personal details. Franklin was curious but too interested in Quait to bother much now.

"Just keep quiet and say nothing," he counseled. "I'll make arrangements with Dick."

She turned to him in sudden alarm—"Franklin! You'll—you'll both be very very careful!"

Promise me!"

He was quite close to her there in his car. Too close for ease. Christine's eyes were lovely, and very striking when fear shone in them. But now a hurt in his own heart was renewed. He understood—she thought—that she was deeply concerned for Dick Bancroft's welfare.

Franklin nodded. "Dick's strong," he almost whispered. "Nobody ever gets the best of him. Don't worry, Christine."

He left her then and went to find Dick.

DICK had a group of travelers from Detroit in tow. Two cars of people who were bursting with questions. They represented $9 gross to the Goldcrest firm, and Dick was trying to be nice to them. He had met them at the highway turnoff that morning by appointment. He knew that such other customers to the ghost town. He stayed with them until noon and enabled Mrs. Hogan to serve them $5.80 worth of meals and almost as much more in souvenirs.

They had set up an emergency gasoline station, rest rooms, tire repair and cold drinks supply at the highway turnoff by the big sign and put a genial old-time ranch cook in charge there. He was an admirable salesman for Goldcrest himself, and sent in many customers for the ghost detour. Before Dick could send his Detroiters away, other cars had come up the rough two miles of dirt road into the old town and Franklin was pressed into guide service. He didn't get a chance to talk to Dick until late afternoon again.

"So that's how it is?" Dick exclaimed, in high interest, when Franklin finally told him about Carl Quait. "Payroll robber, eh?"

"It'll be at night, of course," Dick went on. "When he comes, I mean. Now that we know what we do we'll have to keep an even sharper watch, Frank. And don't you anything to the girls. They'll just get the jitters."

Franklin looked glad. He had already told Christine but he didn't admit it now. He'd see Christine and ask her to say nothing.

"We'll take the bank watch in shifts," Franklin stated, positively. "You've been sleeping there every night. I'm sleeping there tonight, Dick."

"Listen, Frank—I weigh 201 pounds. You weigh about 148 only. Now I could—"

"There's a gun, remember. That makes men equal."

Priest Replies To Threats Made

DETROIT, July 31.—(P)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, disclosing the receipt of letters threatening his life, yesterday challenged the senders to "carry out your threats, if you dare."

The Royal Oak (Mich.) priest, following his weekly broadcast, said within the last two weeks he had received three letters "setting Labor day as the deadline" for the threats to be fulfilled. He added he had been receiving threats "for 13 years."

In his radio address he said: "I am not important, nor is this battle between individuals. Carry out your threats, if you dare; but recognize that his contest is between God and anti-God, between the principles of Americanism and the principles of Sovietism."

Father Coughlin said the letters, all anonymous and vague, had been turned over to postal inspectors.

by side with the military conversations.

The prime minister's statement was made at the opening of a foreign affairs debate at the beginning of parliament's last week of sessions before recessing until autumn.

The British mission, he said, would include Admiral Sir Reginald Plunkett-erle-drax, Air Marshal Sir Charles Burnett and Major General John T. G. G. Heywood.

"The Soviet government has proposed that at the present state of negotiations it would be an advantage to begin military conversations forthwith," he said.

"His majesty's government and the French government have concurred and arrangements are being made to send British and French military representatives to Moscow as soon as possible."

(France announced last Friday she was sending General Joseph Edouard Doumenc as the head of her mission.)

The prime minister said the missions probably would start this week.

Chamberlain sidestepped questions whether Great Britain intended to follow the United States action in denouncing the American-Japanese trade treaty by abrogating the 1911 British-Japanese trade pact.

He said the matter would require careful consideration and he was not prepared to make a statement today.

"Consultations with the dominion governments will be necessary," he added. "Broadly speaking, the aims of the British government and the United States government are similar but the conditions are not exactly the same."

Laborite Philip Noel-Baker suggested Britain had "far greater provocation than the Americans and should start immediate consultations with the dominions with a view to action parallel to that of the United States."

Chamberlain, touching on the European situation in general concluded:

"One must admit that a situation in which the accumulation of weapons of war is going on so many sides and at such a pace is one which can not but be regarded with anxiety.

"It is difficult to see what solution of this problem can be unless it is to be resolved by war itself.

"Unhappily, bad feelings between nations is fomented daily by poisonous propaganda in the press and by other means.

"I can not help feeling that if only we halt this war of words and some action is taken which would tend to restore confidence of the people in the peaceful intentions of all statesmen in Europe—if only that could be done then I still feel that I know of no question that could not and should not be solved by peaceful discussions.

"The gains to all concerned would be incalculable. x x x

Former Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden spoke immediately after the prime minister and said the situation today was "difficult, anxious and menacing."

"There is no improvement or relaxation of tension," he said, "nor can any of us expect such relaxation in coming weeks."

Hearing Set On Disbarment

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 31—(AP)—Hearing on disbarment charges against F. B. Sizer and William J. B. Myers, Monet, Mo., attorneys charged with soliciting business, was set for Wednesday, Oct. 4, by the court of appeals here today, after Sen. Nick T. Cave of Columbia had filed a list of 10 exceptions to a recent commissioner's report which recommended the charges be dropped.

Alfred Page, Springfield attorney appointed commissioner to hear the case, filed his report on July 22. Examining each charge separately, he made a categorical report of 81 pages, in which he concluded that, "none of the charges have been sustained by the evidence."

Cave, attorney for the Missouri Bar Association, today filed his exceptions, contending that the commissioner had erroneously misconstrued both the evidence and the law.

In the October hearing, the full court of appeals will hear arguments in the case.

Quote Street As Asking For Full Authority definite and final settlement.

"To carry this out he must act as agent and would need money for expenses."

Pressed for details, Barbour said his recollection of the meeting was hazy. He could not recall whether any action was taken.

"Did you authorize him to act for your company?" Hollingsworth asked.

"No," Barbour said.

He added he had "merely listened" and had not asked any questions.

"The conclusion I took away was that all at the meeting would be glad to have this thing taken care of," he said.

"Don't you know," Hollingsworth asked, "that they agreed to raise $62,500?"

Barbour said he did not.

"Don't you know that Street wanted $100,000 for expenses?"

Again Barbour replied no.

Hollingsworth indicated that $62,500 was to be raised in New York and the rest in Hartford, Conn.

At one point Hollingsworth demanded to know if Barbour had "any explanation" of why he could not recall what happened at the meeting.

"I have not," the witness replied.

"I was content to leave it in their hands."

Hollingsworth then brought out that Barbour's company was interested in the matter to the extent of about $98,000.

Barbour, who said he also was U. S. manager of the London and Scottish Assurance Company, identified a check for $4,800 drawn on his companies to "C. R. Street" as agent. The amount, he said, represented 5 percent of the refund his companies received under the compromise settlement.

Asked if he ever had tried to find out whether any of the money was used for "corrupt purposes," Barbour said he had not. He had complete confidence in Street, he said, and added:

"I was prepared for anything in Missouri."

"And were you willing to do anything?" asked Hollingsworth.

"No," he said.

The next witness, O. E. Lane, president of the First Association of Philadelphia, told of meeting Street in 1936 at White Sulphur Springs. Street asked him, Lane said, if his companies would advance money for legal expenses in connection with the Missouri compromise.

Lane said he did not ask Street why he needed more money when he already had been allowed expenses as a trustee.

"I assumed Street was acting in good faith," he said.

It developed that his companies paid $1,780 to Street.

"I don't understand to this day," Lane said, "where our money went."

Income Claim Against Carollo

KANSAS CITY, July 31—(AP)—A federal income tax bill of $391,501 against Charles V. Carollo, gambling baron during the reign of Boss Tom Pendergast's political machine, was filed today with the federal court. Both federal and state indictments face the alien who was described by a federal judge as the "big man" in Kansas City's gambling industry.

Dan M. Nee, collector of revenue, took the legal step to prevent Carollo from transferring any property and to arm legally the collector to seize property.

"Under the amendment internal revenue laws the filing of the tax lien gives the collector the power to seize any and all property of Carollo," Nee said. "We will proceed to seize any property or bank accounts we can find."

A federal grand jury charged Carollo evaded $246,659 income taxes in four years. Nee listed penalties at $125,533 and interest at $19,308, and said Carollo had made no attempt to pay the government.

Liens were not filed against Pendergast and his henchman, Mr. Emmet O'Malley, both in Leavenworth penitentiary for dodging income taxes, because negotiations were opened to compromise the government's claims.

County records show Carollo last April transferred some property to his wife. Besides the tax charge he faces two federal perjury indictments, one for mail fraud and a state charge for gambling.

Conviction on two felonies will make possible his deportation to Italy.

Thirty-four Are Injured In A Strike Riot

Three admitted operating a sound truck without permits, and nine admitted creating a disturbance.

Truce Is Effected

A short time later a truce was effected by Police Chief George J. Matowitz.

Company officials said the plant was operating, as it has been throughout the strike, called three weeks ago by skilled tool and die workers to press demands for a supplemental agreement.

The company said 463 persons, including office employees, entered the plant today. About 700 normally are employed at this season. Union representatives made no estimate of the number who entered the plant.

"Police were ordered not to fire any bullets unless the strikers stormed the plant," Capt. Blackwell said.

Two fire department pumps played streams of water into the shouting crowd dispelling demonstrators.

Officials of White Motor Co., three miles away and not affected by the strike, closed their plant today because only 400 of a regular work force of 1,200 reported for duty. Many of the White Motor workers were on the picket line at Fisher, Blackwell said.

Streets Were Littered

The rioting was the first serious outbreak at the Cleveland plant since skilled tool and die workers went on strike three weeks ago demanding a supplemental agreement.

After the melee, shattered glass, tear gas shells and rocks littered streets around the plant.

Scores of women joined in the demonstration police reported.

Robert Chamberlain, assistant safety director who directed police, said a state "of riot and civil commotion" existed near the plant and ordered the area cleared for a quarter of a mile.

Chamberlain said he saw no need for calling national guard troops.

Many of those injured were non-striking employees attempting to enter the plant.

Tear gas bombs thrown by police were picked up and tossed back by pickets in several instances. When the gas failed to disperse the crowd, police turned fire hose on the pickets.

Paul E. Miley, union official, denied unionists had any tear gas of their own.

Blackwell asserted they were firing one tear gas gun and throwing grenades. He said examination of gas shells, which he claimed were used by pickets, showed they were from Flint and Pittsburgh.

Eliot Ness, Cleveland safety director, issued several hours after the rioting an order prohibiting picketing within 500 yards of the factory.

Approximately 300 policemen were called for duty at the gates when the non-striking leave this afternoon.

Benefit Checks Paid Jobless

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31—(AP)—Unemployment insurance totaling $2,666,627.56 was paid Missourians who lost their jobs during the first six months the unemployment compensation law has been in operation, Andrew J. Murphy, Sr., chairman of the commission announced today.

The 325,308 benefit checks averaged $8.20 each. The number of persons to whom the payments were made has not yet been established.

Idle workers in St. Louis and Kansas City received the greatest amount of the insurance payments, $1,178,532.19 and $586,308.04 respectively. Benefits paid to St. Louisans were nearly 43 percent of the state total. Kansas City's share was more than 20 per cent.

Murphy said the unemployment compensation commission had collected more than $43,000,000 from employers since 1936, when the jobless insurance fund was established—leaving a reserve of approximately $41,500,000 after payment of benefits.

Benefit payments for the first six months through local offices included:

Cape Girardeau $24,305.72, Columbia $42,059.62, Hannibal $35,565.06, Jefferson City $43,404.33, Joplin $56,534.77, Maryville $8,792.83, Moberly $25,003.27, Nevada $28,524.31, Poplar Bluff $26,087.65, St. Joseph $87,561.50, Sedalia $40,047.63, Springfield $83,172.67, Trenton $24,067.52.

Affidavit For Woodbury Recall

KANSAS CITY, July 31—(AP)—An affidavit for the recall of Charles P. Woodbury, lone Republican member of the city council, was filed with the city clerk today by Mrs. Nila Beatrice Van Pelt, who described herself as a qualified elector.

She was accompanied to the clerk's office by Sherman Heckrotte, chairman of the Stark Democratic club executive committee.

The affidavit charged Woodbury failed to take proper steps to remove abuses in city government during the rule of Henry F. McElroy as city manager.

Representatives of the charter party have filed affidavits for the removal of Mayor Bryce B. Smith and six Democratic councilmen. The charter party took no steps against Woodbury.

Economy Bloc Forces Reduction In Lend Bill

planned to call up the $800,000,000 housing bill tomorrow, but it was learned that the measure would be shunted aside, at least temporarily, if the lending program was ready for the floor.

There were indications that the housing measure might be caught in the last-minute adjournment rush and be sidetracked until next session.

During the senate debate, Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.), author of the lending measure, urged acceptance of the full $100,000,000 increase for the export-import bank. He said it had made "sound investments," had "promoted trade abroad" and had loaned largely to American exporters.

He reported that Jones advised him yesterday the full $100,000,000 increase was needed.

Taft said he thought it was "perfectly clear" that the increased lending authority would be used to make advances to foreign governments. He said commitments already had been made to Brazil, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Uruguay, Haiti, China and the Portuguese railway.

"If anything can be called dollar diplomacy this is it," Taft asserted. "If the only way we can get the good will of these nations is by paying out gold, that is dollar diplomacy. In return for the loans, we will get some pieces of paper, no good will and no permanent political advantage."

Anxious To Go Home

It was almost noon when Mr. Roosevelt returned and the regular Monday conference was cancelled.

Stephen T. Early, white house secretary, commented that the congressional leaders already knew that Mr. Roosevelt was interested in, namely, "when are they going to adjourn."

The legislators, weary after the seven months' session, were interested primarily in the question—when are we going home?

While leaders tentatively have set next Saturday as the adjournment deadline, House Leader Rayburn (D-Tex.) has emphasized that congress can not quit then if the house is to act on lending, housing and wage-hour legislation.

The senate already has approved the housing measure, which doubles the $800,000,000 borrowing power of the United States housing authority and does not plan to act on amendments to the wage-hour law at this session. Senator Barkley was hopeful that the curtailed lending measure would receive senate approval before midnight.

Key Held by House

The key to adjournment thus was held by the house, where a coalition of Republicans and dissenting Democrats has been controlling much of the procedure. Whether the house would lock congress here indefinitely or open the door to adjournment was expected to depend in part on the advice Mr. Roosevelt gives his congressional lieutenants this week.

Working on routine legislation today, the house docketed the housing bill for consideration tomorrow. Anti-administration forces claimed sufficient strength to kill the measure for this session.

House leaders said it was possible that they might delay consideration of the housing bill, already three-postponed, in order to take up the lending measure.

The original lending bill contained $2,800,000,000 of loan authorizations, but the house banking committee cut the total to $1,950,000,000 before approving it late Saturday.

The senate already has slashed the lending program to $1,640,000,000, and efforts to reduce it further were in progress today. Most members of the bi-partisan "economy bloc" also were expected to vote against it when the bill comes up for final passage.

Barkley succeeded Saturday night in obtaining an agreement to limit further senate speeches to 15 minutes each, after the senate adopted an amendment by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) to restrict government competition with private enterprise under the new program. The proposal, approved 45 to 24, was opposed by Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) on the ground that it could prevent municipalities from borrowing federal funds for the construction of electric plants. O'Mahoney denied this.

Assails Lending Bill

In a radio address last night, Senator Capper (R-Kas.) described the lending bill as "one of the most dangerous pieces of legislation in years."

"This measure calls for Uncle Sam going into mortgage business on a very big scale," Capper said. "It also gives whatever administration is in power a tremendous slush fund that can be used in political campaigns. It might even be used in the coming 1940 campaign, if those in control want to use it that way."

Another piece of business-aid legislation—the social security bill—appeared to have a better than even chance of ending up in the congressional ashcan.

Both the senate and house have approved comprehensive amendments to the social security law, including one to freeze for three years the present 1 per cent old age insurance tax on both employers and employees. It has been estimated that this revision would save the employers and employees $825,000,000 in the three years.

The legislation has been before a deadlocked senate-house committee for more than two weeks.

House members of the joint committee have refused to accept even a compromise version of a require the government to put up $2 against a state's $1 for assistance to the needy aged. The house group has contended that adoption of the proposal, which would cost the government an additional $80,000,000 a year, would pave the way for adoption of the Townsend old age pension plan.

She is described as being five feet seven inches tall, brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was carrying a cardboard box which is believed to contain clothing.

Three persons were fined by Magistrate C. W. Bente in police court this morning for speeding and another forfeited a bond for reckless driving.

Lewis Garrett, taxi cab driver, was fined $5, and W. L. Summer, while Forrest Bryant charged with speeding more than fifty miles per hour was fined $10. The other two were going approximately 40 miles per hour, Traffic Officer Herman Fischer said.

Roy Shearer, charged with reckless driving, failed to appear in police court and his $10 bond was ordered forfeited by Judge Bente. Shearer is also a taxi cab driver.

Three Are Fined For Speeding

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—A concentration of military might unequalled by any peacetime mobilization on this continent since the Civil War will begin this week in preparation for two great practice battles.

With nearly 70,000 officers and men under arms, the first field army—virtually the entire combat strength of the eastern seaboard from Maine to Virginia—will take part in the war games. From them the army high command hopes to gain new information on such military problems as the technique of rapid mobilization and the value of mechanized cavalry in a rough terrain.

Some 24,000 officers and men will mass in the vicinity of the Civil War battleground of Manassas, Va., for maneuvers from Aug. 5 to 19.

War games at Plattsburg, in the Adirondacks of northern New York state, will open a week later. They will involve some 45,000 New York and New England guardsmen and regulars.

The interest of War Department strategists will be centered on the army's single—fully-mechanized cavalry unit, the 7th Cavalry Brigade, which will speed 976 miles to the scene in its own vehicles from Fort Knox, Ky.

This outfit's movements over the 460-square miles of rough, wooded area west of upper Lake Champlain, as a part of a "Blue" defense force undertaking to repulse the more numerous "Blacks," may provide an answer to the relative value of machines and horses in rugged country.

A score of foreign military attaches will observe the maneuvers, but officials said the chances are that foreign governments will not learn a great deal from their reports.

Leaves for Mt. Vernon, Ill. To Take a Position

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jolly left Saturday night for Mt. Vernon, Ill., where he has accepted a position in the Mossier Dime store, which is a unit of an eastern chain of stores. Mr. and Mrs. William Jolly, who have been here from Mt. Vernon spending their vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Jolly and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Raybourn returned there Friday night. Mr. Jolly is an assistant manager in a Woolworth store.

A posse, led by Deputy Sheriff Harold McIlwain, left immediately for Jacksonville and arrested Allen. McIlwain said he did not have a gun with him when he surrendered.

Sheriff Ross said Allen told him he had fired only three shots Saturday night during the siege at the Allen farm in which six men were wounded slightly after the police chief had been killed.

Allen hid Sunday in barns, the sheriff said, and made his way to his brother's place at Jacksonville, after nightfall.

Sheriff Ross said he would go to Lexington some time Monday and defer charges against Allen.

Allen was besieged for hours Saturday night after the police chief was slain in front of the Allen place. The police had been called to investigate reports a young girl was being enticed into the Allen barn. Dickey, chief for 27 years, was shot in the back as he stepped backwards from the police automobile.

Prediction For Warmer Days Ahead

ST. LOUIS, July 31—(AP)—Given a brief respite from the heat over the week end, Missourians had just as well prepare for some more sweltering weather.

The mercury was expected to go to the upper 90s today, and possibly past the century mark tomorrow. Scattered clouds probably will appear—merely as teasers.

Sunday's maximum temperature was 95 reported at Warsaw. Other stations reporting 90 or above included Clinton 91; Harrisonville 90; Kansas City 93; Kidder 90; LaMar 93; Lexington 90; Maryville 92; St. Joseph 93.

Considers Missouri Exhibit at 'Frisco Fair The Best

Mrs. H. Sievers, of Lodi, Calif., a sister of D. E. Paige, 1812 South Ohio avenue, and C. M. and Geo. W. Paige, of Green Ridge, with her brother, J. L. Paige, attended the world's fair at San Francisco, Calif., and writes interestingly of the exposition. She says in part:

"Our niece, Mrs. Leo Sullivan, of Sedalia, had written telling us if we went to the fair to be sure and see the Missouri building as she had heard it was one of the best of all the states buildings and I am sure that it was. It seemed almost as though one were really in Missouri so real was the depiction of her mountains of rock and trees, her rivers and fertile valleys. We took quite a kidding from our friends, one saying: 'This surely isn't the Missouri building as there is no "Jas Ax" out in front,' a tourist standing near by said 'there goes another bunch of show me's into the Missouri building.' However, we didn't mind, and although we are Californians now we still have a warm spot in our hearts for the old home state.

"One of the exhibits of special interest to me was the type of home in which the pioneers lived. This cabin with buffalo horns nailed on the walls, an old spinning wheel inside, and an old dash churn sitting outside the door. Very homey at that, and as I stood there I thought of how our father was one of those pioneers and I wondered if he might not have lived in much the same manner. Several newspapers were on display, among them the "Sedalia Democrat."

"Looking over the register a great many had attended the Missouri building from Kansas City and St. Louis and a young lady from Sedalia. The fair as a whole is most spectacular. It is indeed a beautiful setting out there on the San Francisco bay in view of the bridges, with boats on the bay, air planes and sea planes, also the Goodyear blimp floating overhead.

"The day was lovely and cool but the evening was quite cold and foggy. However, I imagine that night might sound good to some of you Missourians just now. I know we enjoyed it after leaving Lodi where we have had several days registering 102 and 103 degrees.

"We enjoyed several of the foreign buildings and many others. One building of special interest was the National Cash Register Co. It was in the form of a huge cash register, and stood high in the air and could be seen from most any part of the island. This registered the number of persons entering the fair for that day. It was about eight o'clock in the evening as I recall looking at it last and 70-775 people had entered the fair and that being early they were still coming in.

"At night the island is a riot of color, beautiful lights in all colors playing on all the buildings, fountains and flowers and as you leave the island as a sort of a grand finale there is a huge fan of lavender and yellow lights reaching far into the sky.

"Persons who have been fortunate in seeing both the New York and San Francisco fairs give me the idea of what impresses them most being the immensity of the New York fair and the lighting of the San Francisco fair."

Norma Rogers To Be Featured In Riding Act

Hazardous, hurricane horsemanship will be one of the many sensational features offered by the great Barnett Brothers three-ring circus and trained animal exhibition which comes to Sedalia for two performances on Thursday, August 3.

On the broad, bare backs of plunging unbridled thoroughbreds, Norma Rogers, daring equestrienne has ridden to international fame. In important contests of horsemanship. Considered one of the most beautiful and talented riders in the circus world, Miss Rogers has just returned from an extensive tour of South America where she was the feature attraction of the Circo Atayde which visited every important city of Brazil, Venezuela, Chile and the Argentine.

Daring as she is beautiful, Miss Rogers has thrilled audiences on both continents with her thrilling display of the most courageous feats ever attempted on a horse.

A display of equine thoroughbreds gladdening to the hearts of all true lovers of horsemanship is to be found in the Barnett Brothers Circus stables this season. Spirited Arabians, Morgans, Percherons, Palominos, pintos, mustangs and festooned ponies all play an important part in the two-hour circus program.

An integral part of the circus since the earliest days, horses have again come into their own. They are in greater evidence this year than ever before in the Barnett Brothers Circus.

Western mustangs and pinto ponies plunge to new prominence on the vast hippodrome track, while in the three rings finer-mettled Arabians and Morgans present spectacular displays in startling feats of intelligence.

Horses, however, form but one of the many superb features presented this season on the Barnett Brothers Circus program.

Riding the crest of waves of phenomenal popularity Lee Powell, handsome star of the greatest of all talking screen sensations: "The Lone Ranger," will appear in person at every performance of Barnett Brothers Circus this year.

Powell will be accompanied by his own contingent of cowboys and girls which represent one of the most costly features ever presented by any circus which will appear only with Barnett Brothers Circus which comes to the Liberty park circus grounds.

The afternoon performance begins at two o'clock; the evening performance at eight o'clock.

No Great Harm in Ice Water in Hot Weather If It's Not Overdone

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

With the coming of the hot weather, people are accustomed to drink far more fluids than are normally taken into the body in the cooler season. In general, it is said that the average person requires eight glasses of water daily—three at meals, three between meals, one on arising, and one on going to bed.

In exceedingly hot weather we lose both water and salt from the body. As a preventive of heat stroke, it is now customary to recommend the taking of additional salt.

Very few people outside of those in the United States drink water containing ice—probably because ice is much harder to get in other countries. There is a sort of vague impression that the taking of ice water causes harmful effects. However, there is no reliable evidence to this effect. If large quantities of cold water are taken during a meal, the cooling effect may tend to slow down digestion in the stomach for a while. However, the stomach promptly warms up to body temperature any fluid that is put within it.

Most people in this country have developed the practice of drinking water so much cooler than the normal body temperature that a distinct and usually pleasant sensation of cold in the mouth, throat and the tube that passes to the stomach may be produced. This tends to develop the impression that thirst is stopped better with cold water than with lukewarm or warm water. However, this impression is not scientifically correct. When the body needs water, warm water will satisfy the need as well as ice-cold water.

Very large amounts of exceedingly cold water taken suddenly may induce a temporary spasm of the muscles of the gastro-intestinal tract. Beyond such minor hazards, however, there is no danger whatever from drinking cold drinks during the summer season.

Experts point out that whereas we eat ice cream in the summer, the Eskimo eats frozen meat in the winter, with about the same amount of pleasure and with a lack of any inconvenience. The temperature of water and other drinks taken into the body is a matter of habit and convenience and not a matter particularly related to health.

Stamp News

CREDIT for originating the "Famous Americans" series of 35 U. S. stamps to be issued in 1940, belongs to the late Michael L. Eidsness, Jr., superintendent of the division of stamps from 1922 to 1933. The list of 35 "heroes of peace" to be so honored was recently announced.

Mr. Eidsness began work on his proposal in 1932, discussed it at length in a stamp publication in 1935, in which he urged the government "serve the purposes of patriotism and culture" in its stamp releases. Mr. Eidsness' nominees for the honor correspond closely to the final selections announced by the Postoffice Department.

Sales of a number of recent French commemoratives and semi-postals have been terminated, not only in Paris, but also in French colonies. The Commemorative stamp of all colonies, two charity semi-postals of French Equatorial Africa and the Gabon centenary set of four were abruptly withdrawn.

Yugoslavia has issued two commemorative semi-postals in honor of the 550th anniversary of the battle of Kosovo.

Four mourning stamps, showing a portrait of the late Queen Maud, are to be issued by Norway. Proceeds from the surtax will be devoted to the queen's favorite charities.

Raising a Family

Let The Hot Weather Melt Ironclad Bedtime Rules

Dear Mrs. Smith:

You ask me in your letter about putting the children to bed these oppressive nights and expecting them to sleep. You prefer, as you say, not to interfere with their regular routine, because when fall comes, it will be almost impossible to get them back to their schedule.

I wish I knew more about your house, and how cool the bedrooms are. It may be that the children are as comfortable in their beds as they would be downstairs. But while it is true of some houses, particularly those with thick walls, most bedrooms in summer are about the last places to cool off.

If Timmy and the baby have been accustomed to a 7 o'clock bedtime, what with daylight saving and the sun still high and hot, it does seem too bad to have them stowing up there, a sacrifice to a plan, just because it IS a plan, don't you agree?

Surely the sky wouldn't fall if their bedtime were moved back an hour to eight or even half-past eight. And they will make up the lost hours in the morning.

Yes, you're right. It is a relief to get them into bed and have some peace and rest when your husband is home. I am with you there. All day long you've been on your feet trying to keep them fed, cool and happy. I know exactly what it means. But do you really get much rest with the baby crying and Timmy constantly calling because he can't sleep?

Don't let them stay up till all hours, of course. Their beds can be moved so they get plenty of air. Beds close to a wall are apt to be to the middle of the room, or even right close to the window. But nights in summer are uncertain. In a split second, almost, a chill wind may rise, and that is not so good.

Be Practical About Rules

A cooling bath (tepid) at bedtime in summer is a treat. Besides it rests jangled nerves and usually summons the sandman.

One more idea, Mrs. Smith. Which of the rooms are the hottest in your house? Maybe just for the next month or so, until the August nights get cool, you can do a bit of mixing 'round and put your young boarders on the breezier side.

We all have to muddle through the best we can in hot weather. If we can't live up to all the charts, then we just can't; and conscience will have to take a wee bit of a holiday.

Yours sincerely,
Olive Roberts Barton.

Reaction Hits Grain Market

CHICAGO, July 31-(AP)-A reaction of more than a cent from the session's highs at Winnipeg late today caused liquidation in other domestic wheat markets. Prices on the board of trade sagged fractionally below the previous close, but the market displayed a fairly steady upturn.

Earlier, wheat prices here gained as much as 1/4 cent, extending their upturn of the last six sessions.

Wheat closed 1/4 up to 1/2 lower, September 65 1/2c to 66c, December 66 1/2c to 67c; corn 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, September 42 1/2c to 43c, December 42 1/2c to 43c; oats unchanged to 1/2 cent higher.

Early Decline On Stocks Reduced

NEW YORK, July 31-(AP)-There were scattered strong spots in today's stock market but the list, as a whole, displayed considerable reluctance toward putting a rallying foot forward.

Price shifts in either direction were frequent throughout generally drowsy proceedings. Improved tendencies appeared in the final hour and early declines running to a point or so were reduced or cancelled in many cases. While fractional gains were to be seen at the close, minor declines were numerous.

Dealings were sluggish the greater part of the day, with transfers for the five hours approximately 500,000 shares, smallest for a similar period in several weeks.

Part of the hesitancy was attributed to the possibility the pending battle in Congress would postpone adjournment of the legislative body.

Wall Street, it seems, is always a bit touchy until the lawmakers close up shop and go home and thus preclude passage of bills which might not be to the liking of the financial district.

Western Union came to life and jumped more than a point to a new 1937 high, evidently responding to forecasts of expanding earnings.

Backward were General Motors, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Du Pont, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak and U. S. Gypsum.

On Friday, August 4, the Missouri Aberdeen Angus Association will have an all-day picnic and livestock program in Kirksville.

Business Note: There's liable to be whooping building boom in Cincinnati late next month.
The way baseball hysteria is mounting as their favorite Reds skyrocket towards their first title since 1919, those enthusiastic Ohioans are a cinch to tear down the town when the championship's finally clinched. And if they beat the Yankees...
Yesterday the Reds won their third consecutive doubleheader and their fourth in a week. Bucky Walters won his 18th victory by 9-2 and Billy Myers clouted a four-run ninth inning homer for a 5-1 decision in the second of two games with the Phillies.
The St. Louis Cardinals went into second place by winning from the Brooklyn Dodgers twice by identical 5-2 scores.
The Pittsburgh Pirates lost the first game of a twin bill by 7-5 to the Boston Bees and were trailing 5-3 when the Sunday 6 o'clock law stopped the afterpiece.

Bronson Has Lofty Ideals

By GALE TALBOT
NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—Local boxing circles were astounded over the week end by the abrupt announcement that Jimmie Bronson, a product of Joplin, Mo., had been appointed matchmaker for the Bronx Coliseum, the second-largest fight arena in this city.
For years Bronson has been a sort of show-piece of the boxing industry. Men have pointed him out as he stood quietly in the lobby of Madison Square Garden, perhaps, and told wide-eyed visitors they were looking at an honest prize-fight manager.
It was the truth, too. Bronson not only is fanatically honest, but he is sober and is burned with a lot of lofty ideals that have caused him to have some very thin times in his chosen profession.
For 35 years he's seen in a business that is pretty soiled around the edges, and yet, somehow, has managed to keep himself clean and fresh. That, together with the fact he always wears a bow-tie and conducts himself like a gentleman of the old school, has made quite a character of Jimmie.
Always when a vacancy cropped up on the State Athletic Commission in past years there would be much talk about rewarding Bronson for his service to boxing, but nothing ever came of it.
So this came as a pleasant surprise to practically everybody, including Jimmie, when a new outfit took over the big shed in the Bronx and chose the dapper little man to run the works. It means that Bronson can go on being honest to his heart's content, and get paid for it, too.
Bronson was in charge of boxing for the American Expeditionary force during the big war. He became Gene Tunney's close friend during that time, and later on was Tunney's chief advisor in all his title fights. Unfortunately, there wasn't much money in advising Tunney.

Merchants In Split of Two Sunday Games

'Zipper' Zey Bats 1.000 to Boost His Batting Average
A doubleheader between the Sedalia Merchants and the Higginsville Athletics was a split affair with the home club defeating the Athletics 9 to 1 while in the second game the Athletics won over the Merchants 8 to 4.
"Zipper" Zey in the first game improved his batting average by hitting 1.000. Five hits for five trips to the plate, but went bad in the second game getting a lone hit for four trips to the plate. He soared the sphere out into the field in the first game for two singles, two triples and a double.
"Butch" Hoffman of Higginsville came to Sedalia to pitch for the Merchants against his home town team and let them down with three hits and allowed only one run. In face of his hometown players giving him the "rib" he never flattered and pitched with ease. Overfelt placed the targets behind the plate.
In the second affair of the afternoon Sullivan took the mound with Kaullen endeavoring to learn the catching business. Sullivan to let down several times, failure to back up first base, and became a little wild with Kaullen behind the plate. Overfelt went into the game in the seventh inning for Kaullen.
Three times the Merchants and Athletics met and the Sedalia have two games up on the Lafayette county club. Red Simmons, manager of the team is asking for two more shots at the Merchants before the season closes.
